

CafeSuite: If I need to change server computer with CafeStation how will CafeSuite respond to new hardware and can I use same license on new machine?

Yes, you can use the same license key on the new machine. You will only be asked to confirm your license online on our website by entering 10-digit authorization code.

You can obtain the 10-digit authorization code at:

<http://cafesuite.net/auth>

Just enter your client ID and password (see our email with license key) and HardwareId that CafeStation shows (menu Program/License). However it is easier to just press Get code button when Key authorization window shows up after you launch CafeStation. This way you will only need to confirm your client password to get the code.

You need to authorize the license key every time you change the computer where CafeStation is installed.
